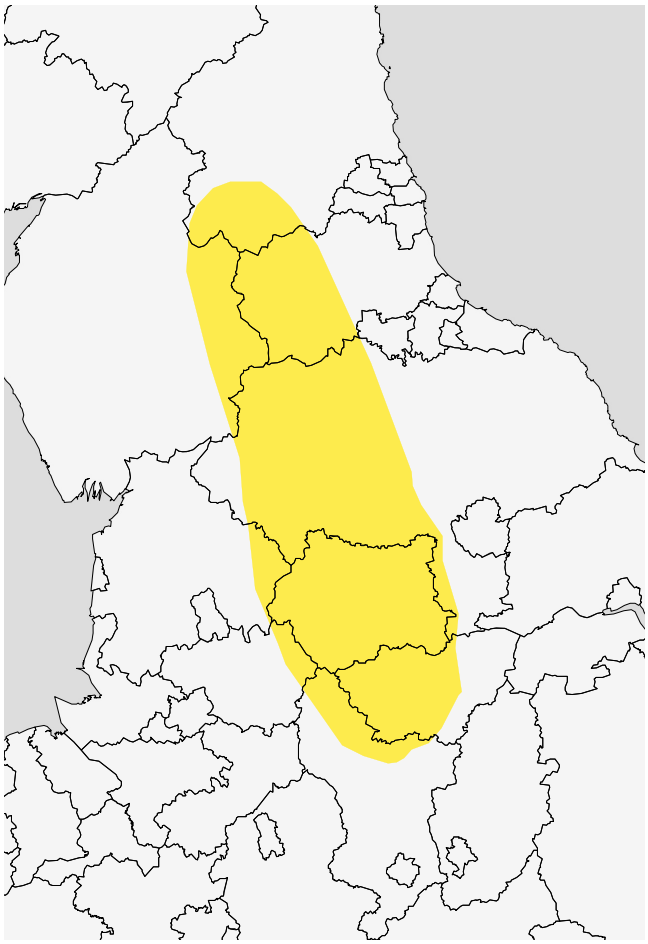
Yellow warning
Ice

Between
03:00 Thu 13 Mar 2025 and
09:00 Thu 13 Mar 2025



Showers, perhaps wintry, and temperatures close to zero, may lead to a few icy surfaces developing.

What to expect

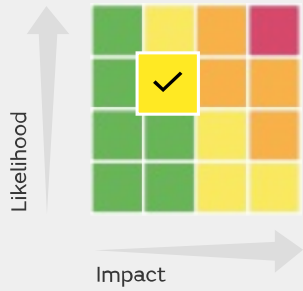
- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths. leading to a greater chance of injuries or accidents

Further details

Showers will continue at times through Wednesday and Wednesday night, these falling as sleet or hail at times, and perhaps temporarily as snow over hills. Clear spells in between will allow temperatures to fall close to zero, with some untreated surfaces turning icy later tonight and at first on Thursday, especially over the Pennines and Peak District.

What Should I Do?

Keep yourself and your family safe when it is icy. Plan to leave the house at least five minutes earlier than normal.



Medium likelihood of low impacts

Not needing to rush, reduces your risk of accidents, slips, and falls.

If you need to make a journey on foot, try to use pavements along main roads which are likely to be less slippery. Similarly, if cycling, try and stick to main roads which are more likely to have been treated.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change: the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.
